OUR VERDICT

A restaurant website with real appetite appeal

Great value Restaurants

Smash House is a website template with personality. The live demo looks like a modern burger brand: a bold hero, a filterable menu (burgers, sides, shakes, drinks) with photos, descriptions and prices, an “add to bag” cart with quantity controls and subtotal, sections for your story, promotions, location and social links, and it works on phones, tablets and desktops. You get the complete website files as a ZIP, step-by-step PDF guides for publishing on Netlify or Vercel (both have free plans for small sites), a customisation guide with ready-to-use ChatGPT prompts and a single-business commercial licence. The seller is clear about the limits: the cart sends order requests but does not take card payments, and there is no POS or delivery integration. For $40.90 once — or $80 with 30 days of e-mail help — and a 60-day money-back guarantee, it is a very affordable way for a burger restaurant to look professional online.
